General Sales Manager, Mining Division

Asset Recovery Specialist | Process Operator | Auditor & Analyst

Over 35 years of mining, construction, and energy industry expertise

Our General manager successfully managed the $110,000,000.00 USD disposition for a Major utility Corporation, when they ceased coal mining operations in Central Washington. Having assisted with the redeployments, he was able to sell the balance of equipment and spare parts to five continents, thus achieving book value gains for the client. He held master service agreements with major oilsands players for the disposition of their surplus mining assets. We would be happy to design a strategy to maximize the value and facilitate the entire process for your group today.
